

LULU

ARCHITECT: RENATO D'ETTORRE / RENATO D'ETTORRE ARCHITECTS

Lulu, a ragdoll, was just a kitten when she was brought home to be a companion for her family's ten-year-old daughter. These days, Lulu she enjoys a charmed life, residing in a house on a cliff that overlooks an idyllic and secluded bay. From her vantage point, she watches the seabirds soaring on the updrafts – it's an endless source of entertainment.

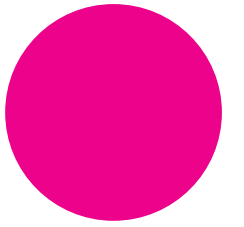

This home was designed to provide a sense of seclusion – despite its location along one of Sydney’s busiest coastlines. Lookouts have been cleverly integrated, without compromising on privacy, so that Lulu and her family can take full advantage of the constantly changing panorama of bay, ocean and surf break.

Rugged and simple materials like brick and concrete were chosen to suit the craggy location of the house as well as the practicalities of family life. Green marble surfaces evoke the bay below.

Q&A

DIVA OR DEVOTED FRIEND?

Diva.

EXTROVERT OR INTROVERT?

Introvert.

LAP CAT OR NOT?

Not.

OLD SOUL OR KITTEN AT HEART?

Old soul.

EXPLORER OR HOMEBODY?

Homebody.

LAZY OR ACTIVE?

Lazy.

DOGS - FRIEND OR FOE?

Definitely foe.